Efficiency Bug Finds Toddle Top Craze Captures Bank's Directors

By WEBSTER E. NOLAN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

New York, Sept.—This is the day of efficiency and the toddle top. This being with the next paragraph.

affirmative, the burden of proof rests on a most modern efficiency expert, with a long training in scenting errors behind him and a long nose for smelling mistakes, was engaged a few days ago by one of the largest banking concerns in Manhattan.

The expert sensed there must be something wrong with the institution if it hired him. He proposed to find it. He spent hours on the company's books and inspecting the amount of waste paper in the litter baskets in pursuit of the uneconomical employee. He associated with the personnel of the bank and then he discovered something.

TEN MINUTES WASTED DAILY.
Exactly seventeen minutes are wasted every day by one-half the employees of the concern, the expert found, in the pursuit of pleasure, the just for gambling via the toddle top. The toddle top, as you know, is a young prism on a spindle, each of the octagon's sides bearing such inscriptions as "Put one," "Take two," "Put all," "Take all," etc. The idea is that you "put in" one cent, one dollar, or one whatever you're playing for, or take out the corresponding medium of exchange.

The toddle top, as you know, is unlawful. There's a ban against it. You do, too, know it.

Anyway, the efficiency expert wrote out his report. It was submitted to the board of directors of the banking concern. An executive session was called to consider the toddle top. The session continued for more than an hour. The efficiency expert tired of waiting. At the end of another half-hour the expert opened the door to the executive chamber to inquire the hour when the session would be over.

On the floor of the chamber knelt and sat the twelve directors. One of them was in the act of spinning the toddle top. It spun and stopped.

LUTHERANS TO DEDICATE NEW BUILDING

The Lutheran churches of the surrounding territory will join the local church in the festivities. A special train will arrive over the South Shore road from South Bend and other Northern Indiana points. The visitors will be met at the Calumet avenue crossing where waiting automobiles will convey them to the school. Henry Herbst, Walter Moyn and Arthur Ebert are in charge of the traffic arrangements.

CONGREGATION'S THIRD SCHOOL.
The first school was organized early in 1886 by Rev. G. F. Luebker. Instruction was given in the church building. A few months later a small frame school house was built on Clinton street. Rev. Luebker, who recently came to Hammond for the burial of his wife, will be present at the services Sunday and offer the invocation in the morning service. In 1896 a two-story brick and stone school building was erected at Sibley and Oakley avenue. This location became undesirable for school purposes.

BEFORE AND AFTER CHILDBIRTH

Mrs. Williams Tells How
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Kept Her
in Health

Overpeck, O.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me both before and after my birth. I suffered with backache, headache, was generally run down and weak. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers and decided to try it. Now I feel fine, take care of my two boys and do my own work."

I recommend your medicine to anyone who is ailing. You may publish my testimonial if you think it will help others."—Mrs. Carrie Williams, Overpeck, Ohio.

For more than forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been restoring women to health who suffered from irregularities, displacements, backaches, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness or "the blues." Today there is hardly a town or hamlet in the United States wherein some woman does not reside who has been made well by it. That is why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for such ailments.

ers for the pupils will be installed in the wide corridor. Book cases for the school library are located on this floor.

On the second floor there is an auditorium with a seating capacity of 500. It measures 70 feet by 52 feet, affording ample space for basketball, volleyball and other indoor sports. A stage with modern electrical appliances is situated at the northern end of the auditorium. A shower-bath and dressing room for men is located to the left of the stage. A kitchen, dining-room, social room, as well as shower bath and dressing room for ladies are situated on the eastern side of the second floor. On the third floor, in addition to the gallery, providing space for several hundred spectators, there are two store rooms and two meeting rooms. In place of the unsightly fire escapes the building has on either end a fire-proof construction of steel and concrete, into which all corridors and exits lead. The Dunham double heating and a vacuum ventilating system insure an abundant supply of fresh warm air in all parts of the building. The class rooms have been equipped with modern furniture throughout.

A large enrollment of pupils is expected when the fall term of the school opens Monday. The teaching staff has been augmented by a fourth male teacher, Mr. A. J. East, who has charge of the primary departments. The school offers a complete standard school course. Instruction in all subjects is given in the English language. The study of religion is obligatory in all classes. The aim of the school is to prepare its pupils for happy, useful, Christian lives, as well as for sound American citizenship. The teachers, graduates of recognized normal schools, are the following: A. H. Eggers, H. E. Schroeder, H. C. Meyer, and J. A. East. The school board is composed of the following well-known Hammond men: Henry C. Wolter, William Washburn and Frederick Westermann.

of this community without chapters on its business development would be lacking in a most important aspect.

And any record of the financial life of Hammond could not possibly be written without acknowledging the vital part this bank has had in the upbuilding and progress.

We have always had the ideal of conducting our banking business not on a purely selfish basis of dollars and cents, but also along the lines of civic usefulness and service to the community.
